

Hello, my name is Leo, I'm from Mainz and I study Baltic Management Studies*.

I decided to study at the University of Applied Science Stralsund, because ...

I had the possibility to get to know my professors, sit in small classes, enjoy a good studying atmosphere and create the procedure of my Bachelor degree course in a way that I would have never been able to at other universities.

The university really gives some freedom to its students that I highly appreciate and I am thankful of. I, for example, was able to take two semesters abroad and now I'm heading towards my third one at the University of Oxford. This is going to be the last – but I'm lucky to enjoy the international approach of my University.

I study Baltic Management Studies, because ...

it is, first of all, fully taught in English and gives the opportunity to study many other different languages such as Norwegian, or Russian. Moreover, I enjoyed the diversity of different cultures and nationalities. Apart from that, some professors really inspired me to pursue a career in finance by their motivational way of teaching. It is a good course to start off an international career if you are really willing to do so.

I especially like the flexibility of professors and the study course in general. It allowed me to make choices that would not have been possible at other universities.

The Hanseatic Town of Stralsund as a place of study is ...

great if you like a student atmosphere where you get to know a lot of people that you meet regularly. Compared to bigger cities, in which you usually get to know very few people, the advantage of Stralsund is that it really becomes a big family that you familiarize with very well after a while.

After my graduation ...

I am willing to do a Master degree in Finance somewhere in Europe. I already specialized in finance, doing my internship right now in Frankfurt in an Asset Management company and I fancy in taking a job in that industry.
